IMMA ARP Studios

The Irish Museum of Modern Art is Ireland's leading national institution for the collection and presentation of modern and contemporary art and is home to the Artists' Residency Programme; a prime location for creative practice and dialogue. For 17 years the ARP at IMMA has hosted nearly 300 artists from around the world with provisions for each artist to work in a studio and live in separate accommodation all of which are located on site at the Museum. Participating artists have opportunities to exhibit their work and initiate public engagements with their studio practice. ARP emphasises the working process rather than the finished product and supports the exploration of new ideas and ways of working. The aim of ARP is to generate a fresh creative space for artists in a stimulating environment at an important point in their career, it provides a professional platform for international artists to come and live in Dublin for a period of up to six months along with participating Irish artists.
